bulletin was issued this summer as Bulletin No. 140.

"AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION" BOOKLET

The Nebraska College and University school of Agriculture have just issued an illustrated booklet giving outline of the University farm and information regarding the courses of studyOver 138,000 persons in Nebraska in 88 of the 92 counties have attended meetings of the Agricultural Extension Service during the year ending June 30, 1914. The average attendance at these meetings has been 573.
In the foregoing map, 242 of the 320towns indicated by dots have been visited two or more times, and meetings of one sort or another were held.
These consisted of farmers' institutes, lectures, demonstrations, and short courses. Meetings of an informal or semi-agricultural nature were not counted.

EXPERIMENT STATION REPORT

Anyone interested in a review of the experimental work of the Nebraska Experiment Station at Lincoln and of the experimental substations at North Platte, Scottsbluff, Valentine, and of the Culbertson demonstration farm may obtain a concise survey of it in the Twenty-Seventh Annual Report of the experiment station by applying to Director E. A.
Burnett, Lincoln. A list of new publications, changes in the station staff, and a financial statement are included in the report.

A PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATION

"One of the old time farmers of Gage County who was skeptical about the farm demonstrator proposition when it was first mentioned has been converted and is confessing his faith to all the world," says the Beatrice Sun.
O. H. Liebers, the county demonstrator, upon a visit to his place told him that there was smut in his oats. The

THOS. J. MITCHELL

treasurer, is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Mitchell, pioneer residents of Dakota county. He is qualified in every respect for the place and will appreciate your support.farmer laughed at the idea, but a little later he found his crop was eat-ten from this smut. The next season the smut was again secured, permitting the farmer to get a good crop.
The remainder was left in the field.
A recent examination showed that the untreated portion was damaged 30 per cent.

THREE INSTITUTIONS AT ONE PLACE

Confusion frequently arises over the distinction between the Nebraska College of Agriculture, University School of Agriculture, and the Nebraska Experiment Station, all of which are situated on the University Farm, Lincoln. In speaking of the state school of agriculture and the state school of agriculture at Lincoln, many regard the two as one, altho in reality they are different institutions.
The University School of Agriculture is an agricultural high school. It accepts its students from the grades and offers them a four years' training including agricultural subjects. The school year begins Oct. 12, next.
Students are admitted to the Nebraska College of Agriculture after they have completed a high school course of four years or have passed the prescribed entrance examinations. The college presents more advanced and comprehensive work than the school.
The degree of Bachelor of Science in Agriculture is conferred upon graduates of the college. The college year begins Sept. 15, next. The Nebraska Experiment Station is still another institution. The working staff, altho members of the college faculty, carry on experiments annually on various phases of agricultural work. Bulletins are published by the experiment station, but no classes of instruction are held.

ance which Ollie York carried to be paid to his mother. Dr. H. H. Johnson, L. A. Mercure and John Reardon autoed Tuesday to Homer, Dakota City, South Sioux City and Sioux City, for the purpose of proving Reardon's identity, which was done. Mr.
Munger admitting that he had been mistaken. John Reardon, the same old Johnnie Reardon, although a little more tattered and travel-stained than usual, floated into, Wineboro Monday little suspecting that he was dead. In fact it took him some time to realize it, and even then he didn't feel sure. He was recognized at once by Judge L. A. Mercure, who has been working on the case. Immediately steps were taken to prove to the public that John Reardon was as much alive as ever. When the three, Dr. H.
Johnson, L. A. Mercure and Reardon reached Homer, they drove up before Ed Munger's office and Dr. Johnson exclaimed: "Ed, we have a drowned man out here in the car which we would like to have you look at."
Munger smelled a rat, and on seeing Johnnie immediately confessed his mistake. "It's him, it's him," he declared. "It's Johnnie Reardon, I'd know him anywhere." John permitted himself to smile. Why of course he was Johnnie Reardon. Who in thunder. Going to South Sioux City, the three stopped at Dakota City to see Sidney From, Mrs. York's lawyer.
Two affidavits were made there by those who had witnessed Ed Munger's recognition of Reardon. At South Sioux City, Mrs. York was told of the new developments in the case which would probably result in her obtaining her son's insurance. At Sioux City, however, nothing definite was done about the insurance as the man-
